

Looking for feedback

March 10, 2020

You might have noticed the line we include at the bottom of every email issue of this Community Connections newsletter. It says that our good neighbor pledge is "to partner with our neighbors on strengthening math and science learning, diversifying the economy and expanding community giving in northern New Mexico."

It's something we take seriously at the Laboratory, and we know that part of being a good neighbor is keeping in touch with timely news that's helpful to people in the region.

To make sure we're doing that as well as can, this month we're carrying out a survey of the readers of Community Connections - people like you! The aim is to learn what's working and what we can improve on as we plan and write future issues. We'd appreciate your feedback (positive or negative) and your suggestions.

Please consider helping us make the newsletter as valuable to you as we can. There are 11 short questions, and it should take around five minutes to complete.

Thanks in advance!
